“ Jerry Sturgeon was once my brother-in-law he was a well liked man. He would do anything to help if he could. He and Dorie were fun and enjoyed many good times over the years. He will be greatly missed.

“ I first met Jerry when I was 10 yrs. old and he was abt 13. He had the most phenomenal head of blond hair, perfectly combed. He was a cross between a James Dean and Steve McQueen kind of cool. He grew to be a man of integrity and forthrightness. In this world of pseudo-brotherhoods (where you can be a brother as long as you act right and do what they want you to do), a brotherhood of which Jerry did not belong. Instead, he was a real brother, the kind that walks in when everyone else walks out, even when it is unpopular and at a cost.

Thanks Jerry for being my life-long friend and brother. RIP brother.
